

7. Like a Stranger (featuring Brittany Ro)

Like a stranger, a piece of furniture
Behind a wall of doubt
Like a stranger, a piece of furniture
That needed to be thrown out
On reflection this rejection, it hurts, it hurts without you
But you're a stranger, a piece of furniture
That needed to be, needed to be thrown out

*Like a stranger sitting on the furniture
Like a cupboard out the back with a curvature
Lonely in the sadness of a gloomy room
Fuming with the anger of a sonic boom
Blank face, room with people you don't know
You don't know what to do with your soul exposed
Vulnerable, got me inconsolable
Swallowed up swallowed whole*

In a room with faces I don't know
Standing with my soul exposed
Swallowed up, been left dry
Loved you once but now you feel
Like a stranger, a piece of furniture
Behind a wall of doubt
Like a stranger, a piece of furniture
That needed to be thrown out
On reflection this rejection
It hurts, it hurts without you

But you're a stranger, a piece of furniture

That needed to be

Wake up one morning

A new release beside me

Fog clears and I, I see the light

In calmer waters I swim away and it's ok

Pain is out, I'll tumble dry

Wake up one morning

A new release beside me

Fog clears and I see the light

In calmer waters I swim away and it's ok

Pain is out, I'll tumble dry
